Dear Sir:

In response to the Office Action mailed May 21, 2003, please consider the following remarks.

REMARKS

The final office action substantially reiterates the initial rejection. The Kiritani reference that uses a silicon carbide substrate is combined with the Hall reference that discusses aluminum on a silicon substrate. The following remarks will show how the rejection is clearly erroneous and should be withdrawn.

A first error is the finding in the rejection that Hall provides a "general teaching of performing such an annealing process" and relies upon col. 2, lines 48-60 and col. 4,
